Until the 19th century, linear algebra was introduced through systems of linear equations and matrices. In modern mathematics, the presentation through vector spaces is generally preferred, since it is more synthetic, more general (not limited to the finite-dimensional case), and conceptually simpler, although more abstract.. A vector space over a field F (often the field of the real numbers ...

In mathematics, and more specifically in linear algebra and functional analysis, the kernel (also known as null space or nullspace) of a linear map $L : V \rightarrow W$ between two vector spaces V and W , is the set of all elements v of V for which $L(v) = 0$, where 0 denotes the zero vector in W . That is, in set-builder notation, $\text{ker } L = \{v \in V \mid L(v) = 0\}$.

Calculus. In general, "a" calculus is an abstract theory developed in a purely formal way. "The" calculus, more properly called analysis (or real analysis or, in older literature, infinitesimal analysis), is the branch of mathematics studying the rate of change of quantities (which can be interpreted as slopes of curves) and the length, area, and volume of objects.

(2007-07-19) On the "Statistics" of Elementary Particles A direct consequence of quantum logic: Pauli's Exclusion Principle In very general terms, you may call "particle" some part of a quantum system. Swapping (or switching) a pair of particles is making one particle take the place of the other and vice versa, while leaving everything else unchanged.

Just when I thought I was done for now with the "falsifiability" business, in our local book store I found a new book, The Scientific Attitude: Defending Science from Denial, Fraud and Pseudoscience, by Lee McIntyre. This won't be a review of the whole book, much of which is concerned with what to do about the serious problem of the role of science in our increasingly post-truth society.

Scholars today recoil at this pre-1960s consensus. The Penguin Historical Atlas of Ancient Greece, written in 1996, scoffs at the "undoubtedly dubious racial theories underlying much of this reconstruction," but offers no theory to replace it, conceding only that "the origin of the Greeks remains a much-debated subject." The Penguin author makes this startling admission, however ...
