Basic model. Starting from a constant volatility approach, assume that the derivative's underlying asset price follows a standard model for geometric Brownian motion: $dS = \mu S dt + \sigma S dz$ where μ is the constant drift (i.e. expected return) of the security price, σ is the constant volatility, and dz is a standard Wiener process with zero mean and unit rate of variance. The explicit solution of this stochastic ...

In mathematical finance, the SABR model is a stochastic volatility model, which attempts to capture the volatility smile in derivatives markets. The name stands for "stochastic alpha, beta, rho", referring to the parameters of the model. The SABR model is widely used by practitioners in the financial industry, especially in the interest rate derivative markets.
