Numerous workers are injured and/or killed each year while working on energized electrical equipment. Many of these workplace injuries are a result of arc flash, a type of electrical explosion that results from a low-impedance connection to ground or another voltage phase in an electrical power system.. Arc flash temperatures can reach or exceed 35,000 °F (19,400 °C) at the source of the arc.

Thermal spraying techniques are coating processes in which melted (or heated) materials are sprayed onto a surface. The "feedstock" (coating precursor) is heated by electrical (plasma or arc) or chemical means (combustion flame). Thermal spraying can provide thick coatings (approx. thickness range is 20 microns to several mm, depending on the process and feedstock), over a large area at high ...

Cross docking is a logistical strategy where products and materials are unloaded from one inbound source (truck, railcar, etc.) and then immediately moved onto outbound transportation with as little storage time as possible. This is desirable because the longer products sit in a warehouse or other storage location, the less overall value they provide.
