Why It Works: Interviewers, of course, understand that you must find a job when you relocate. When you say you relocated due to family circumstances, interviewers may wonder what those family circumstances are. When you answer this question regarding why you left your job, be brief and honest, but don't go into detail.

A question is an utterance which typically functions as a request for information. Questions can thus be understood as a kind of illocutionary act in the field of pragmatics or as special kinds of propositions in frameworks of formal semantics such as alternative semantics or inquisitive semantics. The information requested is expected to be provided in the form of an answer.

I don't even like asking this question in a mock interview, so I don't know how hiring managers stomach it in a real one. But, apparently they do—in fact, turns out it's one of the 31 most common interview questions.. The good news is, despite how demanding and weirdly petulant the question is, it's actually a really great opportunity to sum up why you're a good fit for the position.
